Notes on Overprinting

- Overprinting is accepted subject to tolerance of a maximum of 5% to cover set up and wastage. Whilst wastage is kept to the absolute minimum, if any resultant shortfall on the quantity originally ordered is likely to cause problems we recommend you increase your order accordingly.
- Where we overprint envelopes, finished box quantities may vary slightly due to production considerations. The quantity delivered will be as per your order (less any wastage arising during overprinting) irrespective of the number of boxes actually delivered and the quantity of each.
- Slight variations in colour, density and quality may occur due to the particular overprinting process employed, the speed at which they are run, the position of the seams, the colour of the paper and the flap type.
Whilst we take every care to overprint to a high standard, we accept no responsibility for any variations in colour or quality due to either the process used, the envelope colour or quality, or high-speed running to comply with clients delivery dates.
- Dimensions of envelopes, flaps, windows and window positions are nominal and can vary by plus or minus 2mm which may lead to slight variations in register and position of overprinting.
